

OVER HALF OF Y. M. C. A. FUND HAS BEEN SUBSCRIBED

Workers Urged to Harder Efforts Put Big Drive Across

A good delegation of the Y. M. C. A. campaign organization met last night for its third report. The Toastmasters' Club was present and had charge of the program for the early part of the evening and then it was turned over to the Chairman of the Financial Management.

John Weiss, President of the Toastmasters' Club, presented matters of business regarding their organization and told of its progress. Upon inquiry it was found that the majority of the men present at last night's program were active members of the Toastmasters' Club. He assured the campaign workers that every bit of co-operation possible would be given them from his club and he wished them success in reaching the goal.

Henry Hey, the chairman of the financial campaign, then introduced Evangelist Williamson, who is spending a little time in this city. Mr. Williamson gave a very interesting talk and assured the workers that a work worth while like the Y. M. C. A. was deserving of the most hearty support of the business and professional men of the city, as well as the citizens as a whole.

Mr. Hey then called for the reports of the various divisions. Division A reported one hundred eighty-five dollars, ($185). Division B three hundred seventy six dollars ($376). Division C one thousand one hundred four dollars ($1104). Division D two hundred eighty five dollars, ($285). Division E ninety dollars ($90).

BUCHANAN JURY DICSAGREED LATE THURSDAY P. M.

Reported to have Been 7 to 5 for Freeing Dixonite

Late Thursday afternoon the jury in the case of the People vs. John Buchanan of Dixon, who was on trial in the Whiteside county Circuit Court this week on a statutory charge, preferred by Mrs. George Gronis of Rock Falls, returned to the court room and reported their inability to agree after being out 21 hours and 35 minutes.

The case was one of the hardest fought in the Whiteside Circuit Court for many years. State's Attorney B. S. Sterling and Attorney James (Ted Necktie) O'Brien of Chicago appearing for the prosecution and Attorney John E. Erwin of Dixon being defense counsel.

Immediately after the report of a disagreement the Whiteside county prosecutor stated he would place the Dixonite on trial again. It was reported the jury stood 7 to 5 for acquittal.

FUGITIVE SLAYER KILLS SELF WHEN HE'S SURROUNDED

Earl Starns, Wanted in Iowa, Dead in Clinton, Today

Clinton, Ill., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Earl Starns, who escaped jail at Dubuque, Iowa, several weeks ago, after killing a deputy sheriff, killed himself this morning at the home of his grandmother rather than surrender to Sheriff Taylor, who had surrounded the house with deputies.

Donald Cordella, who was with Starns, surrendered to Sheriff Taylor. The two men came to the home of Starns' grandmother, Mrs. Burns, Thursday while she was in Decatur. The Dewitt county sheriff learned of their presence and surrounded the house and watched it until this morning.

The sheriff demanded that the men come out. Cordella surrendered. Starns refused to come out and the sheriff shot through the door. Starns then turned a gun on himself and died in a few minutes.

OCTOBER'S COLD WAVE HAS SPENT ITSELF, FORECAST

Slowly Rising Temperature for Rest of Week Promised

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 30.—(AP)—After breaking records for three consecutive days, the cold wave in Illinois has spent itself.

Yesterday's October record mark was lowered by six degrees this morning when the mercury went down to 13 degrees above zero. The lowering of the record by seven degrees is unheard of in the experience of Clarence Root, meteorologist.

"The breaking of a record by several tenths of a degree," he said "is not uncommon, but I have never known of a record being knocked down seven degrees before."

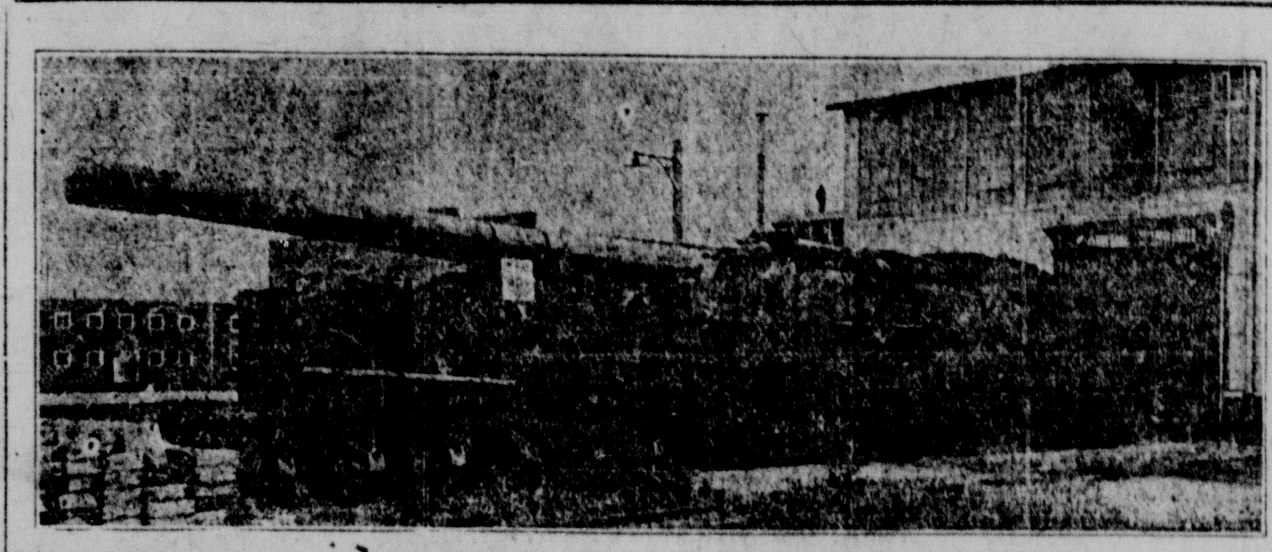

SLOW REACTION COMING

Chicago, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A slow reaction from the cold wave in the Rocky Mountain and central states was promised for today and tomorrow, though prospects were that Halloween would see snow. Seasonal temperatures were forecast for Sunday.

This cheering information from the weather man balanced in part the sad stories from Iowa, Minnesota and Colorado potato growers, whose unharvested crops suffered heavily from frost.

Colorado cultivators of the spud suffered a loss of a half million dollars. Government reports said some 500 carloads were ruined during the last fortnight.

ARMY'S GREATEST GUN WILL SPEND TWO HOURS IN DIXON MONDAY; PUBLIC ASKED TO SEE IT

The 15-inch railroad gun, the Army's greatest gun, will spend two hours in Dixon Monday; public asked to see it.

Tin Soldiers of Boy Blue to Make Last March

Chicago, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The little tin soldiers covered with rust, with which Little Boy Blue played, soon will march sorrowfully away to the Chicago Historical Society. For the house that once rang with Boy Blue's laughter will be torn down.

For many years the widow of Eugene Field refused to sell the house on Chicago's North side where the poet wrote the lines that made him famous, hoping that it would be preserved as a memorial, as was the home of Edgar Allen Poe. She kept his study as he left it. But nothing came of the memorial plan, and most of the mementoes have been turned over to the shelter of the Historical Society.

BETTER WEATHER FOR Sunday's Big Game

Fair and somewhat warmer weather is indicated over the week end and for the Dixon Legion-Darlington Panthers football game at Brown's Field Sunday afternoon. The visitors have played two games this season in which their opponents have made but two first downs, according to the advance dope received today by Manager Ward Miller from "Doc Quinn, boss of the Panther crew."

This assures a strong battle for the local fans Sunday with a team that little has been heard from in this locality. This will be the farthest south that the Panthers have played in several seasons and they are coming prepared for a battle, and are bringing a crew of 18 gridiron stars. The lineup that the Panthers will present here Sunday is as follows:

Ericksen, J. E.; Leachman, J. G.; McArthur, C.; Leachman, J. G.; Williams, T.; Treaner, J. G.; Gharrett, J. G.; O'Neal, R.; Nahon, J. B.; Doring, J. B.; Thill, Martin; Hanson, Conley, Lillie, Tarrell and McConnell, substitutes.

MITCHELL PLEADS "NOT GUILTY" TO ALL PARTICULARS

Lost Every Plea Made to Avoid Standing Court Martial

Washington, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The question whether Col. William Mitchell's defense counsel will ask his court martial to subpoena President Coolidge was taken under advisement today by Representative Reid of Illinois. Col. Mitchell's counsel, No subpoena can be issued before the court reconvenes Monday.

The defense also is considering the advisability of seeking a subpoena for Secretary of War Davis, since Col. Mitchell's counsel contends that the war secretary as well as the President, is the accused in the trial of the air officer.

AMBASSADOR FROM FRANCE TO NEGOTIATE DEBT

Paris, Oct. 30.—(AP)—It is learned on high authority that Senator Victor Henry Bergeron will be appointed shortly to succeed Emile Laescher as French ambassador to the United States.

The decision of the government to change ambassadors in Washington is closely related to the American debt funding negotiations.

Foreign Minister Brand has imposed upon Premier Painleve and others in the cabinet that another effort should be made to settle the debt. Senator Bergeron is regarded as the best man available to bring this about. His financial authority in France, his intimate acquaintance with the subject and the ideas he derived from his recent experiences in Washington as a member of the Caliaux debt mission have persuaded the government that, if something more is to be done he is the man to do it.

CHICAGO FURNITURE MAN Killed in Holdup Today

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Edward J. Hansen, Chicago furniture manufacturer, was shot to death by gunmen early this morning when he went to the rescue of E. J. Riley, proprietor of a chicken dinner restaurant on the hard road two miles south of Springfield.

Seated at a table in the restaurant, Hansen saw four gun men enter and order Riley to put up his hands. As the two of them grabbed Riley, Hansen sprang from his table and rushed at them. Before he reached them, one of the gun men, stepping back through an open door fired at him. The bullet pierced his heart.

Peoria Passenger to Run Through to Dixon

Beginning next Monday the Chicago & North Western Peoria passenger will run from Peoria to Dixon on its return trips from that city, instead of tying up at Nelson. The train will leave Peoria daily except Sunday at 4:15 p. m. instead of at 4:45 p. m. and will run through the Dixon, arriving here at 7:55 p. m., providing for change of passengers to west bound trains here instead of at Nelson.

Wives of the two men were the only others present. Mrs. Riley received a demand that she put up her hands and was roughly handled.

Ransacking Hansen's lifeless body, the robbers took a gold mounted wallet from his pocket containing about $300. They carried sawed off shot guns, one of which was dropped in flight. They fled in an automobile, Mr. Riley said.

MRS. E. H. MOORE, FORMERLY OF DIXON, IS SUMMONED

Wife of Former City Editor Telegraph Dead in West

Mrs. A. H. Barlow this morning received a telegram from her nephew Ernest H. Moore, for many years city editor of The Telegraph, telling of the sudden death of his wife at Los Angeles, Calif., at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening, death resulting from pneumonia. No particulars, other than the meager announcement of the death of the beloved former Dixon lady, were contained in the message, and it is now known whether funeral services and burial will take place in Los Angeles or here.

News of her passing will bring great sorrow to the many local friends of Mrs. Moore and her husband, who moved to Los Angeles from Dixon about fifteen years ago, where Mr. Moore accepted a fine position in an insurance agency. Mrs. Moore, who was formerly Miss Emma Beckmeier of this city, was cashier at the Henderson shoe factory for years, where she was a most popular employee, and after her marriage she continued her former friendships and added to them in many other circles of life.

"BLACK JOE" IS SENTENCED FOR SELLING BOOZE

Constantin "Black Joe" Gredinar is in the county jail here in default of bonds in the sum of $3,500 which were exacted yesterday afternoon by Judge Harry L. Heer in the circuit court. Attorney John E. Erwin, who represented Gredinar in his recent trial in the circuit court for violation of the prohibition law, appeared before the court yesterday afternoon and argued for a new trial. Several reasons were set forth by the attorney, one of which, he claimed to have an affidavit which would show that a member of the jury sitting on the case had threatened in Gredinar's presence to "send him over the road."

"Fool Killer" Visited

Telegraph: Also Escaped

"When I was 18 I knew all about women; now, at 65, I don't know a damn thing about 'em, and what I do know almost 'em ain't so."

This declared the Fool Killer when he dropped into The Telegraph this morning so say "Howdy" and spread some of his good cheer.

POLICE TO SHOOT AT SIGHT TO GET MARTIN J. DURKIN

In Meantime, Sweetheart Who Aided Him, is Held in Jail

Chicago, Oct. 30.—(AP)—A woman's wit and devotion and a man's ability to slip and shoot his way through the waiting hands of police are stories behind the determined search for Martin J. Durkin, steel vest wearer of a federal agent and baner of policemen in several cities. He is still at large.

To Betty Werner, his sweetheart, Durkin twice owes his freedom. If not his life. One of these times was early yesterday when she knocked aside a shot gun of Sergeant Gray as Durkin stepped into a police trap and shot his way out. Lloyd Austin, her uncle, died of bullets exchanged by Durkin and the detective, who was wounded.

Again, Betty mother of a 15 months old baby by her divorced husband, Jack Werner, enabled Durkin to escape in Sacramento after he had wounded three policemen by swinging down the hall and doing the "shimmy" to distract the attention of his guards while he leaped through a window.

INJURIES TO DIXON Woman Prove More Serious than Thought

The condition of Mrs. Clarence Heck, man of Dixon, who was injured in an auto accident on the Lincoln highway Tuesday afternoon, is about the same. She did not rest well Wednesday night at the home of her sister, Mrs. Stanley Graham, in Rock Falls, where she was removed after her injuries had been attended to by a physician.

Her injuries are quite serious and she is confined to her bed. Mrs. Heckman was enroute to Sterling Tuesday afternoon with her sister, Mrs. Graham and Mrs. Addie Toft of Dixon, when the accident occurred near Prairieville. The ladies state that they did not pass the bus on the highway as was rumored and that there were no cars in sight, when their machine skidded on the icy pavement and turned over into the ditch. Fortunately the others ladies escaped without injury, but are in a nervous condition over the accident.

Lincoln Highway Ass'n. of Elks Met Last Night

A meeting of the Lincoln Highway Elks association was held at the Dixon Elks club last evening. Representatives were present from the Elks, DeKalb, Rockford, Mendota, Sterling and Dixon lodges. Plans for the conducting of an inter club bowling tournament during the winter months were discussed but no final action taken. President Rodney Wright of DeKalb presided over the session.

Patoka Woman, Aged 70, Hanged Herself Yesterday

Centralia—Mrs. Sarah Bess, 70, committed suicide by hanging at her home in Patoka, 18 miles north of here, late yesterday.

Want a Dictionary? Must Act Tomorrow

Tomorrow is absolutely the last chance for readers of The Evening Telegraph to secure one of our $4 New Universal Dictionaries for the remarkably low price of 95 cents; $1.05 if by mail. The dictionaries are modern and complete and are one of the greatest bargains this paper has ever been able to offer its patrons.

Meeting of Officers of Elks Here Nov. 15

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Hugo Weyrauch of Sterling, who is the deputy in charge of the northwestern Illinois district of Elks lodges, has issued a call for a meeting of all Exalted Rulers and Secretaries of the district to be held in Dixon, Sunday, Nov. 15. This will mark the first time that Dixon has entertained the officers of the district. Recently, the Illinois lodges have been redistricted, the state being divided into six instead of five districts. Meetings in past years have been held at Galesburg, all Exalted Rulers and Secretaries being required to meet once each year to discuss matters of importance pertaining to the Illinois Elks association. Many of the officers of the state association will doubtless be present at the meeting to be held here next month.

Foreign Exports Will Exceed $2,700,000,000

Chicago—This year's foreign exports will approximate $2,700,000,000, Dr. Julius Klein, Department of Commerce, said in addressing the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers.

H. W. Hellener and H. B. Woodger were transacting business in Dixon today.

WOODMAN, SPARE THAT TREE—

Woodman, spare that tree!
Touch not a single bough:
In youth it sheltered me,
And I'll protect it now.
'Twas my forefather's hand
That placed it near his cot:
There, woodman, let it stand,
Thy axe shall harm it not!

That old familiar tree,
Whose glory and renown
Are spread o'er land and sea,
And wouldn't thou now it down?
Woodman, forbear thy stroke!
Cut not its earth-bound ties:
O spare that aged oak,
Now towering to the skies!

When but an idle boy
I sought its grateful shade,
In all their gushing joy
Here too my sisters played,
My mother kissed me here;
My father pressed my hand—
Forgive this foolish tear,
But let that old oak stand!

My heart-strings round thee cling
Close as thy bark, old friend!
Here shall the wildbird sing,
And still thy branches bend;
Old tree! the storm still brave!
And, woodman, leave the spot:
While I've a hand to save,
Thy axe shall harm it not.

Breakfast—

Orange juice, cereal, thin cream, crisp graham toast, cornmeal griddle cakes, syrup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—

Cream of tomato soup, croutons, lettuce sandwiches, grape juice pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—

Roiled flank of beef, mashed potatoes, baked squash, apple-celery-nut salad, gingerbread with whipped cream, bran rolls, milk, coffee.

If a spoonful of whipped cream served on each cup of tomato cream soup the food value is increased. Most children get too little "fat" in their diet and cream is an easily digested fat. Whipped cream should be used not as a garnish to a dessert already rich in fats but as a real food where it is needed.

Grape Juice Pudding.

Two cups grape juice, one third cup cornstarch, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 eggs (whites), 7 grains salt, 1/4 to 1/2 cup sugar.

If the grape juice is tart—use 3/4 cup sugar. Dilute cornstarch with enough cold grape juice to pour easily. Heat grape juice and when boiling stir in cornstarch, butter and a few grains of salt. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture is clear. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry, add into grape juice mixture and turn into individual molds. Chill and serve with custard sauce made with the yolks of the eggs.

Delightful Meeting of Social Circle

Despite the snow, twenty-four members, ten guests and ten children of the Prairieville Social Circle, met at the home of Mrs. George Leeve, near Prairieville Wednesday in an all-day meeting. Decorations were in keeping with Halloween and paper witches were passed to determine partners for the usual picnic dinner, augmented by chicken and noodles, served by the hostess. A brief business meeting followed, someone reported a destitute family needing aid and a committee was appointed to investigate and report at the next meeting. The entertainment committee then took charge of the meeting and had prepared stunts and games which were enjoyed by all. Mrs. George LeFever, Jr., won mission; she should conduct Bible classes and Mother's meetings; should make clothes for the poor, and cruel for the sick, and finally she should be pleased with everybody and everything, and desire no reward beyond the satisfaction of having done her own duty and other people's, too.

O. P. BADER MARRIED

TO MISS DONNELLY—

The marriage of Oliver J. Bader and Miss Winnifred Donnelly occurred at the Immaculate Conception church at Ohio on Saturday morning at eight o'clock. The Nuptial High Mass was sung by Rev. T. P. Kerlin.

Miss Donnelly was gowned in white satin, trimmed with metallic lace and wore a tulle veil. Miss Anna Schell was bridesmaid and wore yellow satin.

A wedding breakfast to the immediate relatives was given after the services at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Bader left for a visit to their home in Missouri. After their return, they will be at the Donnelly home for a week before leaving for their new home at Rochelle.

Mr. Bader was formerly a resident of this city, later leaving for Princeton.

New Two-Tone HOOSIER

The smartest model yet--- in a kitchen Cabinet!

HERE is something absolutely new—the prettiest, most artistic cabinet you've ever seen! A new tone of quality is given by carefully designed doors of glass, and the satiny Hoosier Grey enamel finish, with panels overlaid in soft Dove Grey, outlined and decorated in rich, Deep Blue.

And of course, being a Hoosier model, it has every detail worked out to a scientific perfection, you may be sure. Hoosier Cabinets, you know, are the last word in convenience and efficiency.

This new model fairly jumps into instant popularity wherever it is shown. To introduce it, we are featuring remarkably liberal terms. Read them below.

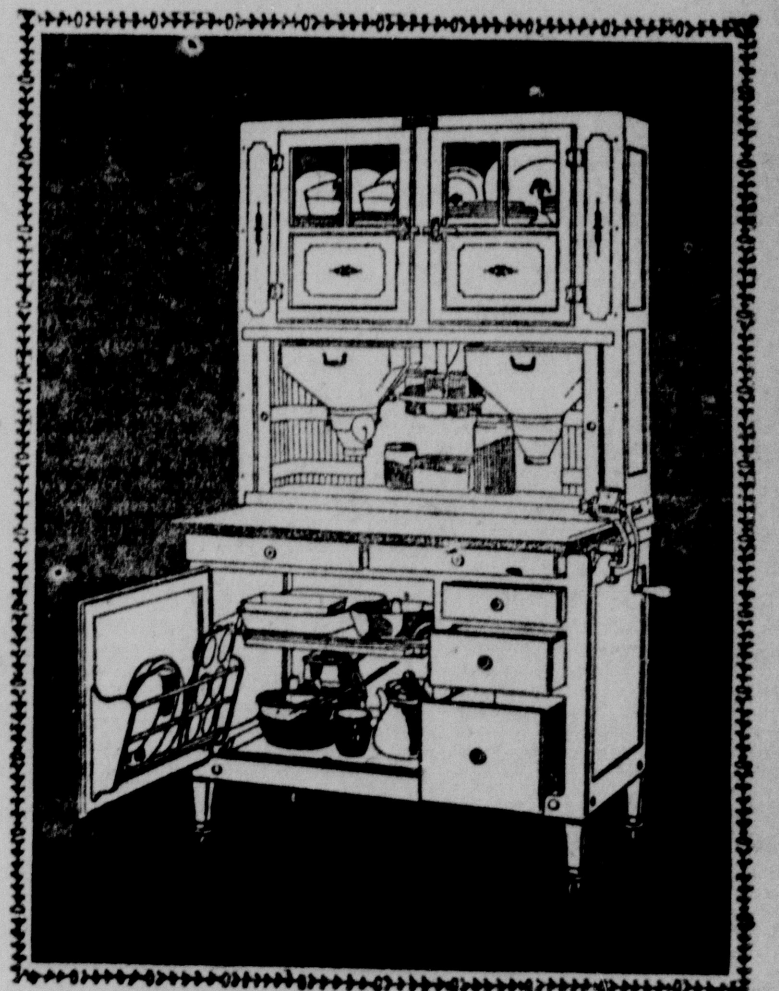

- 1 A low price which makes this an unprecedented value.
- 2 You pay only $5 down—easiest terms on balance.

Don't fail to visit this exhibit tomorrow. Even if you do not think of buying, come in and see what a beautiful piece of furniture this kitchen cabinet is.

A MIRACLE TO TAKE PLACE?

Prediction a year ago that the members of the honorable and august senate of the United States would be agreeable to voluntarily assigning to the president authority to reorganize and consolidate departments of the government would have been laughed at as preposterous and ridiculous. It is yet a month till the convening of the new congress, but already there is evidence that this miracle is actually to take place. Senator Curtis, republican leader, has gone on record as favoring such a program, and Senator Edge of New Jersey has announced that he has already framed a bill along the lines laid down.

Other senators are also expressing their approval and their intention of supporting such a measure. They are to be congratulated for their decision, and applauded for the wisdom of it.

Consolidation, abolition and reorganization purely through a legislative medium is a practical impossibility. It would simply involve the law-makers in a lengthy spell of windy discussion, of which the people have had a plenty. Legislative office rooms are not equipped for laboratory activities.

An undertaking of this sort, however, appeals particularly to the president, whose state of mind is such that he can evolve a plan which, first of all, will be sensible and reasonable and again, his presentation of the matter will give it a standing which it would not otherwise enjoy.

After what he did as governor of Massachusetts, when he jammed forty-six commissions into less than twenty, saving a vast amount of money to his state, he can be safely trusted in this newer and larger undertaking.

CHURCH ADVERTISING PAYS.

Church advertising pays and should be featured by every congregation.

This is the proposal which the Commission on Evangelism is to make in its bi-ennial report to the National Council of Congregational Churches which meets at Washington next month. The Commission is made up of thirty-two prominent Congregational men and women.

The Rev. William Horace Day, D. D. Bridgeport, Conn., former moderator of the Council and chairman of the Commission on Evangelism, states the committee's position with reference to advertising church services in the local press. He says:

A little money spent on general advertising will do two things:

(1) It will bring immediate financial returns. I know of a church that had never spent any money for advertising until they decided to spend about one hundred dollars on their Fall Rally. The receipts in cash on Rally Sunday and the three following Sundays were one hundred and fifty dollars above the receipts for the preceding year and continued better throughout the year.

(2) The second value of general advertising is that through the ads the church is carrying a message to people it seldom reaches. This message may not bring immediate results, but it is good seed sown—and the church sows both in season and out of season. A good thought planted in the heart of a passing man may bring the richest kind of fruitage later on. The church's responsibility is to sow.

The Rev. Mr. Day and his associates admonish their fellow churchmen that to put in one ad and stop is a waste of money. The report urges carefully planned newspaper advertising campaigns in advance of the church's Rally Sunday.

A LITTLE MORE.

There is a lot of talk about putting the Golden Rule into effect in daily business and commercial life.

This is a splendid aim. But can't we go just a little bit farther?

How would it be, if instead of doing to others just what we would like to have them do to us, we did just a little bit more?

Don't stop, in your business or personal relations, at just what you are supposed to do. Do a little bit more than that.

Warren S. Stone, late chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, used to get to his office by 6 in the morning. He wasn't supposed to, but he did.

Other national leaders are the same. None of them stop at the bare requirements of their jobs.

Success lies in giving that little bit more than you are required to.

The prohibition law seems to be cutting its second teeth. Possibly most of us have forgotten it is only a baby yet. But English insurance companies refuse to underwrite shipments from England westward against seizure.

A new code for Turkey, proposed to be acted on at Ankara at the next meeting of the great national assembly, will if adopted abolish polygamy. That's a form of prohibition that may bring about "boot-legging" of wives over there.

It has been announced from somewhere that the bartenders of the United States went to Montreal to hold their annual convention. It could not be noticed that they were gone.

BY CHESTER H. ROWELL

Extreme nationalism is ever the enemy of peace. The only obstacle to the salvation of Germany, and, through Germany, of Europe, is the opposition of the Nationalist party of Germany, which refuses to assent to any peace pact until it grants to Germany concessions to which no other nation would consent. Such tactics fuses the applause of unthinking chauvinists at home, but they do not make for peace or good will abroad.

The game nationalism, in France, delayed the present agreement at least three years beyond the time when it was plainly overdue. In America, it sets the weight of our powerful example on the side of universal distrust and national isolation and holds us back from every practical step of international cooperation.

Patriotism is an essential virtue. He who lacks it is not fit for the privileges of citizenship in a free country. But, like every other virtue, its aberrations may transform it into a vice.

Patriotism is loyalty to the nation. It is the culmination of many lesser loyalties.

Loyalty to the family comes first. But he whose loyalty to his family makes him disloyal to his community is not only a bad citizen, but an unworthy father. He whose loyalty to the community makes him disloyal to the state is not serving well the state. He whose loyalty to the state makes him disloyal to the nation is a traitor.

So far, everybody agrees. But when we draw the inevitable conclusion that he whose loyalty to the nation makes him disloyal to humanity is not even a good patriot, there are those who insist that the argument must stop at the nation.

Up to this point, they say, the lesser loyalty must minister also to the larger. But the nation is the end.

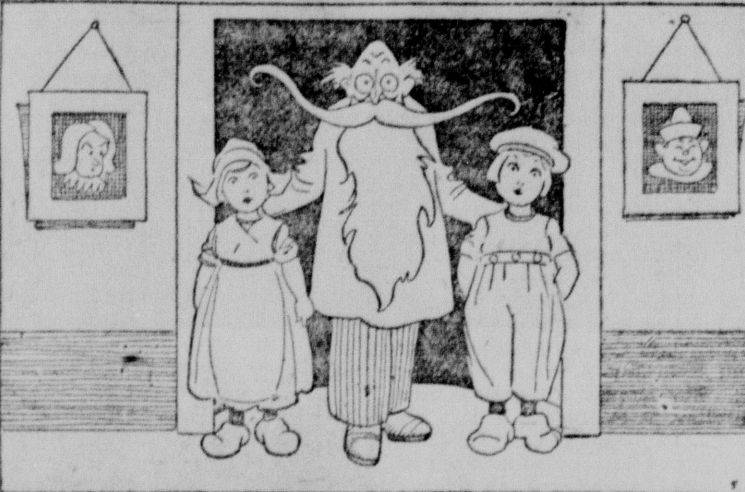

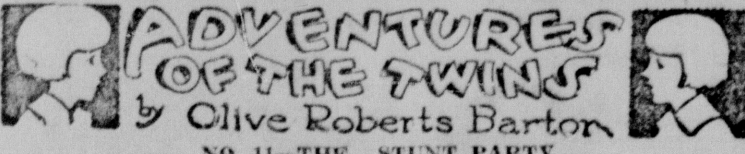

This is the nationalistic chauvinism, which is the enemy of peace.

In our grandfathers' time, the farmer "lived off the farm." Nearly all that he ate and much of what he wore and used otherwise, he produced himself, by his own labor, on his own land. He bought little and sold little, and his annual money turnover was insignificant.

Now, complains former Secretary of Agriculture Meredith, the farmer buys his food from the city. He is one of the chief consumers of tin cans and their contents.

After all, is this not a symptom of the graduation of the farm from the status of labor to that of business? It is the subdivision of labor. The farmer, like everybody else, specializes.

He can eat only a small part of his specialized crop, even if that little, as it comes from the field, is ready

"Just this and nothing more. We three a standing in the door."

When Mrs. Gipsy had told every one's fortune, Mister Corn Dodger called out, "Let us have a stunt party."

"Very well," said the Clown. "That suits me. But what is a stunt party anyway?"

"A stunt party," said Mister Corn Dodger, "is a party where every person does something."

"Then let us begin," said the Clown, "and let us begin with the stunt party."

"Who will be first?" asked the Clown.

"I will," said Mrs. Witch. "I'll do a stunt. I'll sweep the cobwebs off the sky and come back in the sweet by and by." And she flew away without another word.

"Bump!" exclaimed Mister Corn Dodger. "That isn't what I mean. I mean that stunts have to be done right here where we can see them."

"I know a stunt," said the Wise Man Of Our Town. "It's a charade."

"A charade—what?" cried all the High Jinks Landers.

"A charade is something you act. But it means a word. Come here, Nancy and Nick, and I'll tell you what I mean."

The Twins ran over to The Wise Man Of Our Town, and he explained something to them in very low tones.

"Goody," cried Nancy, clapping her hands. "I understand. That's an easy charade. Anybody could guess it in a minute."

"Just wait and see," said the Wise Man Of Our Town. "I'm not so sure."

"Are you ever going to begin?" said Mister Corn Dodger, impatiently.

"What is the charade?"

"Just this and nothing more. We three a standing in the door," answered the Wise Man, pulling the Twins to a doorway and standing between them so that no one could pass.

"I don't understand," said Slow for him or anybody to consume. The rest he sells for money, and with the money, he buys everything else.

The old system counted everything cheap that cost only labor, and everything dear that cost money. Now, labor is the costliest thing there is. Don't blame the farmer if he merely follows the example of all the rest of us.

The franc is still the barometer of France. So long as the franc stays steady, politicians play their favorite game of guff.

They pretend, in France, as they manage for even longer times to do in this country, that the people by so voting, can change the laws of economics. Then, just as they have almost persuaded themselves, the franc drops, and facts prevail.

Any steps to restore the franc must stand the test of actually restoring it. That means that they must be real medicine, and not quick panaceas.

Usually, it means doing that most shocking of things, to the politician—taking the advice of the "international bankers" on questions of international finance. It means, sometimes, letting Americans tell France what to do.

It is perhaps a pity for any nation to be always so close to the verge that a governmental mistake is instantly reflected in the exchange rate. But it has at least the compensation of a compulsory intelligence.

Richard Schmitt was up from Mendota and called on his many old friends and acquaintances Saturday.

George and William Halboth purchased a carload of feeding cattle from Harry Turner Tuesday.

Many of our radio fans were disappointed at not being able to pick up the temporary radio broadcasting station at Dixon last week. The trouble seems to have been that their wave length was lower than what the machines were able to get down to. Wm. Gehant was the only one who tuned them in that we know of.

If Herbert Miller keeps up his record as a poultry and veal collector here, the railroad company will be obliged to put on an extra baggage coach. His consignment to Chicago Monday was 38 coops of poultry and 16 veal calves.

The ladies of the domestic science club met at the home of Mrs. Raymond Jacobs Wednesday afternoon where a most enjoyable time was had.

Mrs. F. W. Meyer was in Amboy Tuesday having some dental work.

Mrs. Lella Hildmann was down from Rockford over Sunday and visited at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Knauer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Chaon and son Joseph arrived here Wednesday from Conde, South Dakota and will spend a few days visiting his parents, brothers and sisters as well as friends and acquaintances.

The schools opened again Monday morning after a weeks recess during which time the teachers were at Dixon attending the institute.

F. W. Meyer unloaded a carload of potatoes on Wednesday. They were a fine lot and priced reasonable at $1.90. Last spring the farmers were peddling potatoes about town for 40c per bushel.

Sanford Nelles is laid up with blood poisoning in his wrist.

Louie Sherman left Wednesday for his home at Ashley after picking corn several weeks here. Louie has become a married man since he used to come here for a whole season and play ball, hence he makes his stops shorter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Biggart have purchased a new closed car through the Mendota agency.

Many of our motorists did not deem it necessary to drain their radiators Tuesday night and as a result of the six above zero temperature the garage men were kept busy soldering up the cracks.

Hie Danekas is opening up the ditch on First street leading to the catch basins. The dirt had washed along side the sidewalk causing the water to flow across the cement walk.

Mrs. August Gehant and Mrs. Jos. Maier were in Dixon the middle of the week calling on friends.

Mrs. Lewis Bradshaw was down from Compton Friday advertising the Eastern Star bazaar which they are holding in their city this week.

Mrs. Theodore Staubl and Mrs. M. T. Broffie was here from Inlet Friday shopping.

Miss Phyllis Knauer is carrying her arm in a sling after a fall last Saturday in which she fractured it.

The C. D. A. card party and dance was well attended considering the weather and roads and a good time was had by all. J. H. Michel and Francis Morrissey were the prize winners among the men and Mae Morrissey and Elizabeth Edwards carried away the women's prizes.

Misses Evelyn Derr and Alvina Danekas have returned from a two weeks visit in Chicago with the former's sister, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Neighbor.

D. C. Kennay was here from the vicinity of Franklin Grove Saturday and leased the Herbert Parker farm.

Word was received from the Western Sand & Gravel Company at Spring Valley that they still expected to finish their stretch of gravel and so Commissioner Stout had a number of workmen busy setting the road in shape.

Lee Center is progressing nicely with the road and Bert Hill has arranged with the county road and bridge committee for financing the balance of the road, when his funds ran out.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. White motored to Champaign Friday and visited over Sunday with their son Earl who is attending the University. While there they were fortunate in securing seats for the big Michigan-Illinois football game.

Frank Chesley was a business visitor here from Lee Center Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chaon, Sr., returned Sunday from a weeks visit with their daughter and husband, Mr.

and Mrs. Henry Glaser in the vicinity of Steward.

Thistle commissioner Granville Miller was in town Tuesday looking after the thistle patches once more before winter. Mr. Miller deserves much credit for the way in which he is looking after his office.

Deputy internal revenue collector Martin Gannon of Dixon was in town Tuesday looking after delinquent federal tax payers.

Peter Dolan and workmen are at Amboy this week pebble dashing the United church for which Pete was given the contract.

Walter Acker was home from Moody, Wis. and visited over Sunday with his parents Mr. and Mrs. John Acker. Walter has a position as chemist in a milk and cheese factory in the heart of the dairy district in Wisconsin.

RUSSIA CONTROLS GRAIN

Moscow, Oct. 29.—(AP)—In order to secure greater control of this year's grain supply the government has issued regulations forbidding state commercial organizations from purchasing grain from private traders or commission agents. This affects many thousands of Russian merchants who have accumulated several hundred million rubles worth of wheat from the peasantry at their own prices, and who now will be forced to dispose of these stocks at any figure obtainable.

of interest to every man and woman in Dixon

NEXT MONDAY, NOVEMBER 2nd

The most astonishing demonstration ever held will be given in our store. It will begin at 9 a. m. and continue throughout the day.

It will introduce the most important contribution to music since the invention, 30 years ago, of the Victor Talking Machine.

Don't miss it! It will be one of the most amazing demonstrations you have ever heard. It will astonish you. It will hold you spellbound. You will be utterly surprised . . . delighted . . . and grateful.

You will hear the most marvelous exposition of music in the world. The more critical your attitude toward music, the more astounded you will be.

A few people have heard this miraculous instrument, and to say that they have been amazed is but a meager description. Fritz Kreisler, Ernestine Schumann-Heink and John Philip Sousa have listened and marveled. All classes of music will be played and sung by Victor's own incomparable artists. No matter what you plan to do next Monday, do not miss this demonstration. You will never forget it.

Come to our store any time after nine o'clock during the day of November 2nd. In every city, in every state in the United States, this miraculous instrument will amaze and capture the people who hear it. Victor Day will be a nation-wide event. The new Victor instrument will make musical history.

SYNOPSIS

development, our psychic—

"Cut it out, Connemara!" called Poppy Glenn's shrill voice as she and Dicky Bird intruded themselves upon the scene.

Others followed, and before them all Cayenne Fairy gave her ultimatum.

"I'll decide this matter myself," she said, as they all flung advice at her at once. "Tomorrow, I'll run down to New York, and back, in time for dinner. If I get my hair bobbed while I'm there, it's 'cause I mean to marry Bing. If I come back with my hair as is, it's a sure 'Salt is the man.'"

Cheers greeted this speech, and there was a sound of revelry by night that dismissed for the time being the subject under discussion. The next afternoon Connemara went to New York. The whole crowd went along, but she went down into the hairdresser's parlors.

Her going did not necessarily mean a bob: she was as undecided as ever when she advanced to the desk to keep her appointment.

She had arranged by telephone that she was to have the time, and if she concluded at the last minute not to have her hair bobbed, she would pay for the time and keep her locks intact.

The lady at the desk smiled and waved her to an appointed cubicle, where pretty bobbed-haired girls let down her auburn mass and brushed it out.

Then the man with the shears came in. Connemara had a vivid remembrance of the picture in "Struwwelpeter" where the great shears open to cut off Conrad's thumbs.

"Of course, you'll marry me, my Cayenne Fairy Queen," he exclaimed.

"We are each other's own, twin halves of a perfect soul made one,

"Why should I waste kisses on a girl who may be another's wife?" he declared.

and all that. You never could stand that hatchet-faced, beetle-browed, lantern-jawed, gimlet-eyed old Pil-grim Puritan of a Salt Adams. You know you couldn't. And I want you to have your hair bobbed tomorrow, and tomorrow night at the dance we'll tell all and sundry our precious secret. How about it, my honey-blossom off of a peach tree?"

"I'll see, Bing. I don't know—really I don't yet. But I'll decide tomorrow, of course, and I'll let you know."

"Good! If you decide against me, don't bother to forward the information. But you won't—you can't. Oh, my little Connemara, nobody could love you as I will—as I do. Star of my soul—"

"I know, Bing—I know. But run now, Salt—Salt is coming here. If I decide on you, I'll have my hair bobbed tomorrow, and if I take him, I won't. So you'll know."

Carrington went reluctantly, and Adams came to the arbor, where Connemara had promised him an interview.

It was a stormy one. Salt had a temper equal to Connemara's own, and the two struck sparks.

"I shan't make love to you," he declared, "until you say you will marry me. Why should I waste kisses on a girl who may be another's wife? But Connemara, don't, I beg of you, don't make the mistake of accepting Bing Carrington. He's a fortune hunter, a wastrel, a spendthrift. He cares only for the silly, bobbed-haired flapper sort. He'd make you one of that ilk, and it is not your mettle! Come to me, Fairy darling, we will have pleasures of the intellect, of the mind, of the soul, such as that village cut up can't even understand! I will love you with a devotion, an idolatry, all the deeper and finer and sweeter because of our mental "Wait a minute," she said convulsively, almost hysterically, as he drew the white apron closer about her neck.

He waited, shears open and poised above her head as she watched him in the mirror.

As in a dream the visions whirled across her mind. Life with Bing, happy, debonair, good-natured; life with Salt, clever, deep thinker, distinguished.

Bing, aflame with Southern ardor of devotion. Salt, quivering with passionate idolatry. Bing, triumph of muscular perfection, victor of all out-door sports; Salt, mentally great, full of imagination and creative genius. Oh, which should it be?

The shears hovered. In the mirror she saw the puzzled face of the barber as he wondered at her indecision.

She held her future poised on the clip of those shifting blades. A word from her and the first clip would proclaim her irrevocably pledged to Bing Carrington. Or a mere protest would close those steel arbiters of Fate, and she would be the bride of the worthy scion of the Adams family.

Suddenly, like a flash, illumination came. Her inner soul spoke, the truth appeared to her—she knew!

When Connemara rejoined the crowd who waited for her, they stared at her radiant face. Eagerly they looked at her hair, but her small tight-fitting cloche of a hat was drawn down closely over her whole head, and no hint could be gained as to the state of Cayenne Fairy's hair.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Minister, B. H. Cleaver
Bible School Supt., J. F. Cox.
Director of the Choir, Miss Ora Floto
Organist, Louis Leydig

The usual program of worship and Bible study will be followed with very slight variation in connection with the Williamson-Graves Revival meeting now in progress. A great day is anticipated and every teacher and pupil of the Bible school are especially obligated to punctuality and co-operation with the leaders in this campaign.

Miss Graves will sing and talk with the assembled children of the downstairs departments, following the lesson-study period. Mr. Williamson will likewise conduct a decision service at the same time in the church auditorium.

Sermons for the day will be: Morning, "The Missing Disciple"; evening, "Cities of Refuge." Miss Graves will lead the combined choirs, and sing from her wonderful collection of fresh, heart-searching solos at each service. The Christian Endeavor meeting will be at 6:30; topic, "Can We Live by the Golden Rule?"

The pastor will fill Mr. Williamson's appointment in the Fifteenth Ave. church, Rock Island, being absent for the Saturday evening and Sunday meetings of the Revival here. Members of the church and school are urged to attend the District S. S. Convention in the Brethren Church, Dixon, at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN

A. L. Sellers
"O, that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and wonderful works unto the children of men." "O come let us sing unto the Lord. Let us make a joyful noise unto Him with psalms."

"Oh come, let us worship and bow down; Bring an offering and come into His Courts."

Sunday school 10 a. m.
Morning Worship 11 a. m.
Evening Worship 7 p. m.

Our Aid Society will meet with Mrs. Krug next Wednesday afternoon at which meeting we are expecting a message from Bro. Shull on the subject: "The Woman's Dept. of our Church. What They Are Doing and Their Possibilities." Everyone is invited to this service.

Sunday afternoon the County S. S.

Stop Itching Scalp

Rub Parisian Sage on your head and you won't have to scratch the dandruff off; stops itching scalp instantly; makes hair grow and keeps it luxuriant, soft, fluffy and beautiful. The best hair tonic and scalp treatment. Rowlands Pharmacy, Dixon and Rochelle, and add druggists sell it.—Adv.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it loosens and heals the inflamed membrane and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

Convention will be held in our church at 2:30. A very interesting and profitable program has been arranged for. We extend to all a hearty welcome to this service. We are beginning a series of revival meetings Sunday morning. Rev. Jesse Shull of Springfield will conduct these services. Rev. Shull comes from a family of ministers having four brothers and a father in that same profession. One brother is a missionary in India and another a successful pastor in Chicago. He is deeply devoted, an interesting speaker and bears a record of splendid pastoral work. We are planning for a praise service each evening in song also special numbers of music. Mrs. Sellers will have charge of the music. We invite you to come and will welcome you.

BEING LOCKED IN CEMETERY INSPIRATION OF SERMON

Evangelist at Christian Church Preached on His Experience

Relating how himself and family once found themselves locked within the National Cemetery at Chattanooga and with difficulty sealed the wall, Evangelist Williamson gave the audience at the Christian church last night a most interesting and encouraging discourse on "Passing Closed Gates" in the Journey of Life. The escape of the Apostle Peter from prison, in Acts, twelfth chapter, was the Bible passage used. Faith and obedience it was clearly shown, marked Peter's response to his Angelic Deliverer.

"But alas!" he continued, "how many in unbelief are unaware of the presence of the unseen Gate Opener, and obstructions of sin and other obstacles are regarded as unsurmountable. Peter obeyed every command promptly, unquestioningly. Protests, objections, hesitations, inquiries are sadly out of place, in face of positive commands from God. 'Why this? and Why that?' 'Why must I make an out and out confession of Christ? 'What is the importance of baptism? 'Is there a heaven?—All these and numerous kindred questions are symptoms of a heart not right before God. Peter's every act of ready obedience brought him nearer his freedom until 'They came to the iron gate that leadeth into the city; which opened to them of its own accord.' If you, too, will only 'go all the way with God,' your 'iron gates' will swing open as you approach them.

"And prayer! The church was praying for Peter's welfare and deliverance. What a glorious and memorable scene! Into it comes, even while they pray, the delivered one himself, in dramatic demonstration of God's power and willingness to hear and answer prayer. If Dixon church and every church, will but unite in praying for souls to be delivered from the prison house of sin, that cottage prayermeeting in the home, Mary, mother of John Mark, may be repeated abundantly and triumphantly."

Miss Vivian Graves' beautiful "sermon in song" was a request number, entitled "Crowded Out." The spirit and numbers in the audience showed a marked increase last evening, and the first invitation for converts resulted in three additions. Prospects for the first week's work, preparatory in nature partly, point forward to a great Lords day. Services will be held tonight and Saturday night, the opening praise starting at seven-thirty o'clock.

KIDDIES' COLDS

Lasky's Liquor Stock is Stolen in Railroad Yards

New York, Oct. 29—(AP)—Fourteen barrels of liquor, his entire private stock, and five barrels of silver have been stolen by hijackers from Jesse L. Lasky, vice president of the Famous Lasky Lasky Corporation. The silver loss is $5,000 and the pre-war value of the liquor $10,000.

The consignment, shipped from Hollywood under permit, was awaiting transfer to Mr. Lasky's new Fifth Avenue home. As three vans drove to the railroad yards to get the consignment, three or four masked men leaped upon the drivers and a detective, forced them into an empty box car, locked the door, then set about removing the liquors and silver in a leisurely manner.

"Oh, really, it was a pity," Mrs. Lasky mourned. "It was all pre-war stuff. There were such fine wines and champagnes and cordials and such good liquors that one could get before the war."

MANY BIG GAMES ON SCHEDULE FOR SATURDAY'S SPORT

Three Inter-Sectional Contests Arouse Interest of Followers

Chicago, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Two bids of the mid-west for inter-sectional football supremacy are invading the east and south today. In the march of Illinois against Pennsylvania at Philadelphia and Notre Dame against Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

The third and most likely hope is gathering final strength at Michigan where the Navy is tomorrow's eastern representative. The middies and accompanying dignitaries of the nation's sea forces are due in Ann Arbor late today.

The Wolverines think their chances of victory are lessened by the absence of Tom Edwards, star tackle, whose sore arm is not healed sufficiently to permit his playing, since the same line up that downed Illinois is ready for the fray. The defenders of Michigan's uncrossed goal are in fine shape.

Gophers First Big Game
In the Western Conference campaign there is much surmising regarding the chances of Minnesota against Wisconsin in the traditional melee in Minneapolis. The Badgers are temporarily out of the running by the grace of Michigan, while the Gophers have not played a Big Ten game.

Purdue and Indiana start today for Chicago to be entertained respectively by Chicago and Northwestern. Aftermath of the clash with Penn hamper the Stagg men, who lack Pokras, guard and also miss Hobart Noff, another line man. Northwestern's bellicose already is filling up with homecoming crowds.

Karow, full back, Urdill and Nichols, tackles, will not start for Ohio State against Wooster tomorrow, but Elmer Marek will be there.

Tactics designed to break up Wash passers were Iowa's final practice theme today.

Furious Jamming Marks Six-Day Bicycle Event
Chicago, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Furious jamming in the six day bike race brought F. Spencer and Bobby Walther into the lead at the 101st hour.

when they had pedaled 1527 miles, 7 laps and accumulated 259 points. Tied with them in distance, but 94 points behind, was the Bello-Benezzato team. Three teams were a lap behind, three others were two laps back and three others four or more circuits in the rear.

SPORT BRIEFS

Jockey Jimmy Wallace has equalled Johnny Maiben's feat of riding four winners in a single day. Two of his mounts yesterday at Laurel paid handsomely. Lieutenant 11 being a 10-1 shot and Pikros 23-1.

Thirteen college presidents will view the Yale-Army gridiron battle Saturday. They come from Princeton, Cornell, Harvard, California, Northwestern, Clark, Illinois, Missouri, North Carolina, Washington, Swarthmore, Carnegie and Yale. All are attending a New Haven conference.

Yale authorities assure that the demand for tickets exceeds all previous records. Although Yale bowl accommodations 75,241 in addition to 450 press seats, indications today are that thousands will be disappointed.

Paul Berlenbach has vetoed plans for a midwinter trip to California to defend his title against a Pacific coast light heavyweight contender. He has been promised a match with Young Stribling in New York if he defeats Jack Delaney early in December.

The growth of professional football should be encouraged says the Harvard Crimson, declaring that only when professional teams come to occupy the same space in the public prints as is now held by professional baseball will college teams return "to comparative privacy of friendly amateur competition."

The American Power Boat Association today had on its rolls one hundred and seven clubs, an increase of fifteen over last year. At the annual meeting Frederick R. Still of New York was re-elected president.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

COMPLAINT ON HUNTERS

Editor—Much complaint has been made of hunters out for rabbits. The law provides an open season for rabbits from Nov. 10 to Jan. 31, and hunters will be reported for not abiding by this law. The daily limit for rabbits is 15, and squirrels 10. Small boys from 10 years up will be asked to show their licenses. It is unlawful for any hunter to use at any time ferrets, weasels, quinea pigs or rats or to build fires in holes to drive the rabbits out.

Why do farmers complain of hunters? Because they go through fields cutting wires, breaking down fences, destroying "Keep Out" signs, shooting close to buildings and towards homes, making it unsafe for anyone to be out and sometimes taking a chicken or two along the road. If the farmers ask a hunter to leave his place he is called vile names and boys of 16 years have been known to reply, "Look out old farmer, you'll get a load of shot."

Hunters are warned to keep within the law and thus avoid being reported for the farmers are watching them.

ONE SUFFERER

Kill Bank Employee in $93,000 Buffalo Robbery
Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Robbers today shot and killed one Bank of Buffalo employee and wounded two others in making away with money contained in a bank automobile. The loot amounted to $93,000.

The man killed was Charles W. Clifford, driver of the bank's automobile and those wounded were J. M. Meyers and L. M. Arrington, messenger, the latter perhaps fatally. The money was being transported from a trust company to the bank, both institutions in the heart of the business section. The bank car contained approximately $117,000 but the robbers overlooked about $24,000 in their haste to escape.

NEW BUS LINE FILES
Springfield, Ill., Oct. 29.—(AP)—Permission to operate motor busses between Morrison, Denrock, Erie, Hillsdale, Silvia, East Mo'line, Mo'line and Rock Island was asked of the Illinois Commerce Commission today by the Nash Motor Bus Line Inc., of Fulton.

Is Today Your Birth Anniversary?
FRIDAY, OCT. 30
If so, you dominate others. People follow you in all your enterprises. You will be successful in a large measure. No amount of opposition will keep you from your goal. You are persistent. And sometimes a little stubborn. You have a large following of friends. They look to you as their leader. You will love when you are young. But marry later on in life.

Too Much Efficiency

By E. J. Rath

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN W. BROOKE, hardware manufacturer and widower, has arranged with Economy and Efficiency Corporation, Limited, to take over the management of his household. He leaves town without informing his three grown children, Constance, William and Alice, of his plans. HEDGEC, efficiency engineer, assigned to the job, arrives at the Brooke mansion and breaks the news to the surprised trio. His credentials proved genuine Hedge joins the family at dinner. He tries to make it clear that he is there as their father's representative and expresses the hope that they will soon be keenly interested in the experiment.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Experiment! The Brookes looked interested. What sort of an experiment?

But Mr. Brooke, as aware of the interest he did not at that time gratify curiosity. Instead, he branched off into the gas that were quite irrelevant, things that ordinary folks talk about. He was a rather good talker, yet he did not do all the talking. He managed to lead the Brookes into it, and presently they found themselves conversing with this strange person as though he were actually a familiar member of the household.

Dinner was proceeding with astonishing ease. Billy had the word to the point where he took up his favorite amusement of teasing his sisters.

"By the way, Connie," he asked, "have you dad's letter there?"

She produced the letter, and her brother read it with solemn face.

"Down here it says, 'Treat him as you would me,'" quoted Billy.

There was a look of quiet amusement on Hedge's face.

"Well, why don't you, Connie?" demanded her brother.

"I—I don't quite understand," she stammered.

There was a flush on her cheeks, partly anger, partly confusion. Something was coming, she knew; she could have annihilated her brother.

"Don't understand?" echoed the demon. "What do you know how you always treated father when he sat down at the table?"

Constance was blushing furiously. Of course she knew! It was her invariable custom to kiss John W. Brooke on top of his expansive bald head. She blushed at the memory of this, and she blushed anew at the memory of her salutation to Hedge, back in the library, when, before she had glanced up from her magazine, she thought he was her father.

For an instant she contemplated flight. She dared not look across the table, where sat the person who was to be treated according to the injunction of her father. Alice suppressed a giggle; Billy was grinning. If Hedge was laughing, she would die.

But Hedge was not laughing. He did not appear to be conscious of the dire confusion of Constance. Instead, he was regarding the butler with a cold glare.

"Come here," he commanded, raising an imperative finger.

The butler approached.

"Your name's Horace, isn't it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then listen, Horace. I've been watching you. Do you realize that you waste from thirty-five to forty per cent of energy every time you walk from that door to the table?"

The voice of Hedge was rasping. Horace's lower jaw sagged slowly.

"In the first place," continued Hedge, emphasizing his remarks with incisive gestures, "you take a longer route than is necessary. Take a direct route—so—and you save three steps. Lengthen your stride and you save two additional steps. Let me see you step out. There! You see it can be done. There are two equally short routes by which the table may be approached. Alternate them. It saves the rugs. Walk faster. It saves time. And turn down those lights along the wall. They're unnecessary and it will save electricity. After this evening, put John has told you that that is the only condition under which you will be welcome in this house, he has told you the truth."

Mrs. Prescott wheeled upon her son.

"John Prescott, are you going to stand for that and hear your wife turn your mother out of doors?"

John kept his temper admirably.

"Leslie is not doing that, mother. She's only trying to tell you that you must not interfere with the children."

"Interfere with her children! Does she not know that I began to bring up a boy before she was born?"

"Well, I expect," said John firmly, "that it is because she knows you have made such a failure with me that she is afraid to let you have any say with her children."

If Mrs. Prescott had had the slightest sense of humor, this speech of John's might have cleared the air, but as it was, she just stood and glared at him for a few moments and hesitated. He received no sign that would serve as a guide to action, and presently disappeared from the room, his head wagging pitifully.

Constance bit her lips.

"May I venture to ask your plans?" she inquired.

"Certainly. They are simple. To make it brief, my plans are to put your father's house hold on an economic basis that will correspond to that on which his hardware establishment is now operated. I may say that these plans are also his, but the accomplishment of them has been turned over entirely to me. I shall, of course, expect your co-operation."

"And if we should decline to co-operate?"

"That is an impossible contingency. Constance and her brother exchanged glances, and both of them looked at Alice. Here was a fool who had rushed in where an angel feared to tread; where even John W. Brooke, hardware magnate, often walked with circumspection.

"When I say that I expect your co-operation," continued Mr. Hedge in a less formal tone, "I may say that I can easily show you why we should co-operate. The science of eliminating waste and installing efficiency is a fascinating one. It possesses strong elements of romance."

Alice's were a hypnotic stare.

"Your father, although I have never, recently became interested in it. I may now say that he is a strong advocate. His business has been completely reformed."

"Was there anything the matter with it?" demanded Billy.

"Over two hundred thousand dollars' worth of annual waste," said Mr. Hedge promptly. "We do not know, unfortunately, the annual waste of his household, but I understand that no accounting has been kept. However, that will be remedied. I should judge, from a very casual inspection, that anything up to a fifty per cent saving may be achieved. In any event, the work will be one of great interest."

The son of the household had an angry exclamation on his lips, but Constance checked him with a sign. She was thinking rapidly. Instinctively she felt that the time was one for caution.

If there was to be a battle, it would be necessary to make the customary reconnaissance. She had carried with her the tiny bit of pasteboard which the visitor handed her in the library; now she poked it up from the table and glanced at it idly. It was merely a play for time, but the successor of John W. Brooke was prompt in turning the trifling incident to account.

"If you will note my card," he said, "you will see that it is about one-half the area of the customary business card. That saves paper. You will note that there is no superfluous 'Mr.' and that the Christian name is represented by an initial. That saves ink and type. A similar saving is represented by the letters 'E. E.' which serve adequately to designate the nature of my business. The entire card is supplied at a forty-two-per-cent reduction over the cost of the average business card. The matter may seem trifling; in reality, it is important. It is a primary step in scientific management."

"But what does 'E. E.' mean?" asked Constance, studying the penurious scrap of pasteboard.

"Efficiency Engineer."

"It would seem," she observed critically, "that your card requires a verbal explanation."

"Possibly—to the uninformed," replied Mr. Hedge. "Even so, conversation is cheaper than paper and ink. You now understand what E. E. means; it will never be necessary for you to inquire again during the period of your natural life. But in the same period, if it were necessary to print 'Efficiency Engineer' in full paper and ink, would doubtless run into thousands of dollars, to say nothing of the time and cost of composition. It would be an economic fallacy."

There was an unmistakable note of enthusiasm in the voice of Mr. Hedge.

NEXT CHAPTER: Scientific management under fire.

Horace, do you realize that you waste too much energy?"

There was an instant of silence in the dining-room, while Hedge placidly stirred his coffee. His amazing outbreak over the inefficiency of Horace subsided as rapidly as it arose. He had relaxed into a satisfied calm.

"Are we to understand," began Constance, coldly, "that our father told you—"

"Your father told me nothing. I have never seen him."

"Never saw him! Yet you mean to say that he sent you here?"

"To make full arrangements with the company of which I am a representative," replied Mr. Hedge. "The Economy and Efficiency Corporation, Limited. We have recently effected a reorganization of his business. We have, in his absence, now been placed in charge of his household."

"And you actually propose to live here?"

"I am living here," responded Mr. Hedge, sipping his coffee. "You must learn to separate a fact from a mere intention. My immediate personal effects I brought with me. My trunk will be here in the morning. By the way, Horace, did you take my grip to Mr. Brooke's room?"

The butler shook his head; speech had not yet returned to him.

"Do so at once or cause it to be done. I shall occupy Mr. Brooke's suite."

Horace glanced at Constance and then left the room as though she had been insulted as never before in her life.

I turned to Jack. He looked perfectly blank.

"What shall we do now?" he asked.

"Well, since you have asked me, I said, 'if I were you, I would leave
